The walk'in Prodige shower enclosure, offered by Krone by LG Industries, hides, behind its industrial style in the air of time, a totally new practicality for the professional and interesting possibilities of customization for the consumer. Publi-info.

Unlike the others, the Prodige walk-in shower enclosure is not made up of a single glass panel, but of three, to be assembled on site.

A shower packaged in box like a suitcase-

This particular design has advantages, first and foremost in terms of storage. The shower enclosure is packed in a suitcase format, which saves space and makes handling easier. Thus, the transfer from one point to another is possible by one person. In addition, the box fits into the boot of a car, which makes it easier to transport, but also into a lift, for quick and unhindered access to the site. The risk of bumps during these logistical steps is limited, especially as the panels are framed.

Easy to assemble and install

Assembly and installation have also been designed to be carried out by a single person. The glass panels can be handled effortlessly and joined together tightly, while the fixing technique is simplified. The reversible shower wall is screwed together with a profile that ensures a 20 mm plumb line and a stabilising bar that can be adjusted to a length of 100 cm by cutting. Once assembled, the whole unit is perfectly rigid and stable.

Customisation is possible

On the consumer side, Prodige which is in keeping with today's industrial style, can be customised via its central panel. Located at the height of the so-called privacy strip, it is available in three glass finishes: smoked, frosted or tattooed. This innovative glass decoration process ensures screen-printing type renderings, but with increased resistance, as the glass is pricked before being inked.

Krone by LG Industries: the trademark of a specialist

Krone is a brand of LG Industries,

A French company founded in 2004, which manufactures bathroom products - shower enclosures and trays, bathtubs - in its own factory.

All stages of the manufacturing process are integrated, from the production of the aluminium profiles to the tempering of the glass. Always original, Krone by LG Industries products, including the walk'in Prodige shower enclosure, are marketed under various trade names by several professional and consumer distribution chains.

The product benefits:

- ◆ Reversible wall, available in two or three framed parts.
- ◆ 6 mm thick transparent tempered glass, treated with the German Nano-Care process.
- ◆ Two sizes: 100 or 120 x 200 cm.
- ◆ Wall profile allowing adjustment up to 20 mm.
- ◆ Aluminium profiles "silver anodised" or "black matt anodised", durable and resistant to corrosion and wear.
- ◆ On the three-panel version, possibility of customising the centre one (three glass finishes, one of them decorated).
